

NRM SOUTH WORKS ACROSS SOUTHERN TASMANIA ON PROJECTS TO PROTECT AND MANAGE OUR NATURAL RESOURCES FOR THE BENEFIT OF THE ECONOMY, COMMUNITY AND ENVIRONMENT. We rely on member input to help guide the direction of NRM priorities across our region.

By joining NRM South's membership base, you can be part of a community that is working to secure the health of our water, biodiversity, soil, waterways and community assets.

Over the last two decades, NRM South has been boosting investment into the Region via funding from Australian Government, State Government and industry partners.

We work with a range of stakeholders and partners, from small community groups to research institutions, industry, businesses, conservation organisations and government departments.

We are also responsible for developing and updating our region's NRM Strategy, a five-year plan that identifies the social, economic and environmental values of the region and outlines how we can all work together to manage and improve its condition.

Membership is free and open to all Tasmanian entities that have an interest in NRM.
